

The 5 Points of Calvinism	The 5 Points of Arminianism
Total Depravity Man is totally depraved, spiritually dead and blind, and unable to repent. God must initiate the work of repentance.	Free Will Man is a sinner who has the free will to either cooperate with God's Spirit and be regenerated, or resist God's grace and perish.
Unconditional Election God's election is based upon His sovereignty. His election is His own decision, and is not based on the foreseen response of anyone's faith and repentance.	Conditional Election God's election is based upon His foreknowledge. He chooses everyone whom He knew would, of their own free will, respond to the gospel and choose Christ.
Limited Atonement When Christ died on the cross, He shed His blood only for those who have been elected and no one else.	Unlimited Atonement When Christ died on the cross, He shed His blood for everyone. He paid a provisional price for all but guaranteed it for none.
Irresistible Grace Grace is extended only to the elect. The internal call by God's grace cannot be resisted and always results in conversion. Grace is not extended to the non-elect.	Resistible Grace Saving grace can be resisted because God won't overrule man's free will. Man is born again when he believes and receives God's grace.
Perseverance of the Saints God preserves the elect so they persevere to the end, so no chosen person will ever be lost.	Falling from Grace Those who are truly saved can lose their salvation by falling away from the faith. (Not all Arminians agree on this point. Some believe that believers are eternally secure in Christ and cannot be lost)
